Liberal majority passes throne speech, 57-40

Gritting her teeth and moving on. The vote means Wynne can re-introduce provincial budget that was rejected by opposition parties in the spring

Ontario Premier Kathleen Wynne sits with Finance Minister Charles Sousa as they attend the throne speech at Queen's Park in Toronto on July 3. CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS FILE

Ontario's Liberals won enough seats June 12 to form a majority government, but the change in status is not leading to any more co-operation with the opposition parties.

The Progressive Conservatives and New Democrats voted against the government's throne speech Thursday, but the Liberals easily outvoted them, 57-40, to approve their legislative plan.

The vote clears the way for Monday's re-introduction of the provincial budget, which Premier Kathleen Wynne said again Thursday would be identical to the May 1 fiscal blueprint that the opposition parties rejected, triggering the election.

There has been no other business since the legislature resumed July 2 because the government is fighting with the Tories and NDP over the makeup of committees.

Committees

- The New Democrats point out that the clerk's office that guides legislative proceedings has recommended giving the Liberals five of nine seats on each committee.
- Premier Kathleen Wynne said the Liberals intend to stand their ground and insist on majority of six members on each committee.
- Virtually every piece of legislation introduced by the government goes through a committee stage.

The Liberals are demanding six of nine seats on each committee, while the opposition parties say the government should get only five seats.

The chairs of the committees vote only in case of a tie, and only to maintain the status quo, so shouldn't be considered regular members, said government house leader Yasir Naqvi.

"What we are talking about is having a voting majority, excluding the chairs, within the committee," Naqvi told reporters.

"That's exactly the position that the opposition parties took in 2011 (when) they argued that since it was a minority Parliament, there should be a minority of (Liberal) voting members in the committee, which we agreed upon."

The Progressive Conservatives noted the throne speech committed the government to put `partnership over partisanship, to increase transparency and accountability," but said the Liberals want to change long-standing protocols on committees.

Declining waters. Flood danger passing in southern Manitoba

Flood fears were easing in much of southern Manitoba Thursday, as the Assiniboine River started to subside near Portage la Prairie.

"We have hit crest, the waters are declining. The good news really is the degree to which the preparation certainly is paying off," the province's Emergency Measures Minister, Steve Ashton, said six days after the province declared a state of emergency and called in the military.

Since last Friday, hundreds of thousands of sandbags have been placed around homes. Dikes and riverbanks were reinforced and monitored with high-tech surveillance equipment. Across the province, more than 700 people were forced out of their homes — the vast majority as a precaution due to the possibility their local roads might be washed out.

As the river crested near Portage overnight, both the Assiniboine River and the Portage diversion, a channel that diverts excess water from the river to Lake Manitoba, were near capacity. A small leak in a bank on the Assiniboine was detected and fixed, but other than that, the defences held. Evacuation orders in Delta Beach north of Portage la Prairie were lifted Thursday morning.

Manitoba often experiences some flooding in the spring. This year has been different in that flooding arose in the summer due to severe rainfall amounts upstream in Saskatchewan at the end of June.

The second crest is expected to hit Brandon this weekend at levels slightly above the first crest but below the level in 2011, when low-lying homes were evacuated as a precaution.

OPP's recognition system nets 13 charges

Kawartha Lakes OPP say they laid more than a dozen charges after just one day of using a new licence plate recognition system.

Officers laid 13 charges Wednesday, including three of driving while suspended.

Crash leaves child in critical condition

An 11-year-old girl is in critical condition in hospital after being struck by a van in Kitchener.

Waterloo Regional Police say the girl was riding her bike on the sidewalk Wednesday when the van, driven by a 53-year-old man, pulled into a driveway and hit her.

Police have not confirmed if charges will be laid.

The girl was airlifted to a Hamilton hospital with serious injuries.

Insurers urged to stop asking for access to genetic-test results

Privacy. Despite broad political consensus, there are currently no laws that prohibit genetic discrimination

Canada's privacy watchdog is urging insurance companies and others to stop asking for access to the results of existing genetic tests.

Privacy Commissioner Daniel Therrien says it is becoming more of a challenge to protect people's genetic privacy with recent advances in science and technology.

"We are calling on the industry to refrain from asking for existing test results to assess insurance risk until the industry can clearly show that these tests are necessary and effective in assessing risk," Therrien said in a statement Thursday.

There are now hundreds of genetic tests available to help spot genes known to increase a person's risk of developing certain medical conditions.

But some people may decline tests for fear a positive result may mean they could face discrimination from insurance companies or their employers.

There are currently no laws in Canada that specifically prohibit genetic discrimination, although there appears to be broad political consensus around the issue.

The most recent Conservative throne speech promised to stop employers and insurance companies from discriminating against Canadians on the basis of genetic testing.

Last year, the Liberal leader in the Senate introduced legislation that would stop insurance companies and others from discriminating against people who are genetically susceptible to some diseases.

Past Conservative and Liberal election platforms pledged to stop discriminatory life insurance practices, while the New Democrats once introduced a private member's bill in the House of Commons to ban "genetic characteristics" as grounds for discrimination under the Canadian Human Rights Act.

Manitoba. Zoo's popular exhibit fully reopens after it had gone to the wolves

The full Journey to Churchill experience at the Assiniboine Park Zoo in Manitoba has reopened, after closing when wolves broke into the polar bear exhibit.

Just five days after opening the new $94.4-million exhibit, the zoo was forced to close the attraction's biggest draw — the waterfall at the Churchill Coast — and the wolf enclosure for two days of repairs.

"We have a fence that subdivides the one exhibit, we have wolves on one side and the two female polar bears on the other side," explained Assiniboine Park Conservancy COO Don Peterkin. "The wolves, being the ingenious little fellows that they are, found a spot where they could dig through that barrier and come up on the bear side.

"So they went for a visit."

Bus Riiii-der. Winnipeg softens stance on musical performances on transit

Winnipeg city hall is changing its tune about passengers who feel like singing aboard public-transit buses.

The city had proposed a by-law that would have called for a $100 fine for disruptive behaviour on buses, including singing and musical performances.

There was an immediate backlash by some residents who said there should be higher priorities for city hall.

Now the city says it is amending the rules to allow for singing that does not disturb other passengers or the driver.

Winnipeg Transit director Dave Wardrop says the wording will be changed so that it will not limit people's freedom of expression. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gunman demanded to know estranged wife's whereabouts

Texas. Man dressed as FedEx driver barges into home, kills four children, both parents

A gunman dressed as a delivery man forced his way into his sister-in-law's suburban Houston home where he held her children at gunpoint until their parents arrived. Then he opened fire, killing four of the children and the two adults, law enforcement officials said Thursday.

Ronald Lee Haskell, 33, has been charged with multiple counts of capital murder in the killings Wednesday evening, the Harris County Sheriff's Office said in a statement. He is also accused of critically wounding a 15-year-old girl in the shooting rampage.

When he arrived at the door, Haskell demanded to know where he could find his estranged wife, the statement said. After the children's parents, Katie, 33, and Stephen Stay, 39, arrived home, Haskell opened fire on the family. The children killed were two boys ages four and 14, plus two girls ages seven and nine, Harris County Sheriff's Deputy Thomas Gilliland said.

Five family members were dead when police arrived. Two were transported by helicopter to a Houston hospital, where one died and the other remains in critical condition, the statement said.

Documents introduced during a preliminary court hearing Thursday show the 15-year-old girl attempted to close the door to the home after telling Haskell her parents weren't home, according to a report by KPRC-TV in Houston. But he kicked in the door.

Harris County Precinct 4 Constable Ron Hickman said that after Haskell left the home the injured teenage girl contacted authorities.

Law enforcement personnel located Haskell's car and a low-speed chase ensued, ending in a cul-de-sac, Hickman said. A standoff lasted more than three hours before Haskell exited the car, sank to his knees and surrendered. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Background

- Haskell was the estranged husband of Katie Stay's sister, according to Harris County Precinct 4 Constable Ron Hickman.
- Neighbour Verena Beckstrand, 42, said Katie Stay went to Utah last fall to help her sister escape her relationship with Haskell and make a fresh start in Texas.

A family who identified themselves as friends of the shooting victims leave the home where the family was shot after placing flowers and a photograph on the porch Thursday in Spring, Texas. The Harris County Sheriff's Office said Ronald Lee Haskell was booked Thursday on a capital murder/multiple murders. DAVID J. PHILLIP/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Junta fires railway chief over rape, killing of girl

The head of Thailand's state railway was sacked Thursday by the country's military government after a public furor over the rape and killing of a 13-year-old girl in her berth on an overnight train.

State Railway of Thailand governor Prapas Chongsa-nguan had earlier declined to resign in response to calls for him to show responsibility.

Police arrested a railway worker for the rape and killing of the girl travelling Saturday night from the south to Bangkok. Police said he had confessed to the crime and to tossing her body from the car. It was not found until Tuesday morning. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Malaysia

Flurry of criticism after Hitler tweet

Malaysian Prime Minister Najib Razak on Thursday chided a ruling party lawmaker for tweeting a salute to Adolf Hitler while praising Germany for making it to the World Cup final.

Bung Moktar Radin drew a flurry of criticism with his tweet: "Well done. Bravo. Long live Hitler." after Germany thrashed Brazil 7-1 on Tuesday.

"He does not speak for Malaysia, or for ordinary Malaysians, who understand Europe's tragic past," Najib said in a statement.

German Ambassador Holger Michael slammed the "unacceptable allusion to the fascist regime of Adolf Hitler."

Costly statue causes uproar in India

In a country grappling with poverty, sluggish growth and a daunting deficit, India's new budget has set aside $33 million US for a colossal iron-and-bronze statue almost twice the size of the Statue of Liberty.

The plans in Thursday's budget for a 182-metre-tall replica of Indian independence leader Vallabhbhai Patel caused an outcry, with many people saying the country has far more urgent priorities.

"How can they waste money on a statue like that?" asked Rohtash, a vegetable vendor in the Indian capital who goes by one name. "The government could have used that money to reduce the price of rice. That would have been some help for poor people like us."

It was the first budget of a new government elected on promises to revive stalled economic growth.

Others lamented how the budget earmarks more money for the Patel statue than for women's safety nationwide, which got $25 million, or the education of young girls at 1 billion rupees or $16.5 million.

The move was criticized strongly on social media, with one sarcastic Twitter user saying: "Truly #budget2014 has something for everyone, even Sardar Patel." The move was rated "most disliked" on the website of NDTV news channel, and the Times of India newspaper started a Twitter poll asking if the statue is a "wasteful expenditure."

The project was originally meant to be financed by the local government and donations of iron and cash from across the country. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who's Patel?

Patel was one of the most important members of the Congress party, which dominated Indian politics for almost 60 years after the country won its independence from British rule.

Israel escalates Gaza offensive; Jerusalem, Tel Aviv under fire

Danger. Both sides dig in their heels; Israel escalates air assaults and Gaza militants continue rocket fire; 85 dead this week

Israel dramatically escalated its aerial assault targeting hundreds of Hamas sites in the Gaza Strip Thursday as Palestinians reported the strikes also hit a home and a beachside cafe, raising the total number of people killed in this week's offensive to at least 85. Israel's missile defence system also once again intercepted rockets fired by Gaza militants at the country's two largest cities, Jerusalem and Tel Aviv.

The Israeli military said it had struck a total of some 500 targets throughout the day, focusing on underground tunnel networks and rocket launching sites. In all, the military said it has hit some 860 sites since the operation started Tuesday.

Gaza militants fired more than 140 rockets at major Israeli residential areas Thursday, Israel's military said. Rockets fired at southern Israel damaged homes, infrastructure and spread panic. Israelis rushed to bomb shelters as sirens wailed in major cities. About five million Israelis are in range of the Palestinian rocket attacks. No Israelis have been killed.

A rocket hit a car in the southern Israeli city of Ashdod Thursday night engulfing it in flames. Israel's emergency services said nobody was injured in the attack, reversing an earlier statement in which it said a man was hurt.

Israel has mobilized 20,000 reservists for a possible ground operation into Gaza, but for the time being remains focused on maximizing its air campaign. Neither side is showing any sign of halting their heaviest fighting since 2012. Israel says that Hamas must cease rocket fire from Gaza for Israel to consider a truce.

Harper reiterates our support

Prime Minister Stephen Harper reiterated Canada's support for Israel Wednesday in a conversation with Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu.

The PMO says Netanyahu updated Harper on the situation in Israel, including steps taken to defend itself against attacks by Hamas. The Israeli military pummelled Palestinian targets again Wednesday across the Gaza Strip and threatened a ground offensive. Harper reiterated Canada's steadfast support. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Group calls for ban on two chemicals in consumer goods

Great Lakes. Canadian Environmental Law Association urges ban on triclosan and triclocarban, which is in everything from soap to yoga mats

Canada should ban two antibacterial chemicals used in many consumer products that are accumulating in the waters of the Great Lakes, a report issued Thursday said.

The report, from the Canadian Environmental Law Association, also suggested Canada, the United States and all provinces and states bordering the Great Lakes should prohibit use of the chemicals and assess proposed alternatives before they are used.

The two products are triclosan and triclocarban, which are used alone and together in products such as toothpaste, body washes, bar soap and clothing. The chemicals are even found in yoga mats.

Used for decades, the chemicals have been coming under increasing scrutiny in recent years.

In December, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration announced it was reconsidering the safety of antibacterial soaps and other antibacterial personal care products because of concerns the chemicals they contain may disrupt human hormones and contribute to the development of antibiotic resistance.

Then in May, Minnesota made headlines when it banned triclosan. The report called triclosan a chemical of high concern and triclocarban a chemical that should be replaced with safer alternatives.

The Apple store can trademark its layout: EU court

The European Union's highest court says Apple's characteristic retail store layout may be registered as a trademark.

On Thursday, the Court of Justice overturned a decision by German patent authorities, which last year rejected an application to grant copyright protection to Apple's store design — parallel lines of big tables with electronic gadgets spread out on them beneath a high ceiling.

The Luxembourg-based EU Court said a design pattern such as Apple's "may constitute a trademark provided that it is capable of distinguishing the goods or services of one undertaking" from others.

The case will go back for a final decision to Germany's highest patent court, which had sought the EU judges' advice.

KIBBLES 'N BITS THIS IS NOT

THE METRO LIST

Mike Benhaim
metronews.ca

1 No bull. Great time of year for sports fans. Tennis, soccer and the greatest game of all: The annual running of the bulls in Pamplona, Spain. What could be better than eating a big breakfast, donning your finest whites with red scarf, and joining the world's craziest as they run down a narrow, cobbled, 850-metre corridor after someone unleashes a herd of bulls? In addition to the many injuries sustained every year, several people have actually been gored … to death. Ah, but for the ones who live, what a rush!

2 Bread basket. The NBA is in full free agency mode with several massive contracts waiting to be signed. Chris Bosh has been offered almost $90 million by the Rockets, the Knicks have a $129-million cheque on the table for Carmelo Anthony, and heaven only knows what will be thrown at LeBron James. So, the toughest decision really belongs to the league: A handful of players, or a medium-sized European country? Yeah, you know I'm right, but you also know they're going with the players.

3 Plane pizza. Severe weather forced a Denver-bound Frontier Airlines flight into an unscheduled landing that grounded them in Wyoming for two hours. As passengers grew restless, Captain Gerhard Brandner called Domino's and footed the bill for 40 pizzas to be delivered right to the plane. That was all it took to make him a hero as the morale of the entire plane turned around. Except, of course, for those seated near the lactose-intolerant. Bravo, anyway.

4 Miss-guidance. Air New Zealand attempted to entice passengers to oft-disregarded safety instructions by producing an in-flight video featuring bikini-clad models. Some patrons found the campaign distasteful, and it was dropped after thousands signed an online petition. And it wasn't just women complaining. Many of the men agreed that after watching it a few times, it really did seem wrong.

5 For the dogs. The owner of Paws Natural Pet Emporium is on a 30-day diet consisting exclusively of pet food. She hopes to promote ingredient awareness, showing that what she sells is healthier than the food many Americans consume. Furthermore, she endorses an active lifestyle of running around in circles, and for hygiene, advocates licking yourself twice daily.

6 Bey for effort. The University of Victoria is offering a course that should elevate students culturally and artistically through its primary theme: Beyoncé. The class will be taught by Melissa Avdeeff, who has previously lectured on Justin Bieber and A Tribe Called Red, so you can expect some profound educational returns on those student bursaries. But it won't be an easy A, or at least I hope not, because I can already hear parents singing, "If you liked it then you shoulda got an A on it. Uh-oh, Uh-uh-oh."

7 Cool sunnings. To anyone looking for a spontaneous musical getaway, join me next week in Montego Bay for the 22nd Reggae Sumfest. Four nights of incomparable entertainment and sun-filled days on some of the nicest beaches in the world. This year, in addition to Reggae faves Popcaan, Sean Paul and dancehall legend Bounty Killa, Sumfest features Jason Derulo, Wiz Khalifa and this year's winner of The Voice, hometown champion, Tessanne Chin. A send-off fit for the king of Cambodia

Cambodia on Thursday began a three-day elaborate ceremony to transfer the ashes of the late King Father Norodom Sihanouk from the Royal Palace to a stupa in the opulent Silver Pagoda.

On the first day, people provided offerings of food to Buddhist monks in front of the Royal Palace in the morning; in the evening, about 3,000 Buddhist monks gathered in front of the Royal Palace to chant prayers.

King Norodom Sihamoni and his mother, former Queen Norodom Monineath, as well as Prime Minister Hun Sen and his cabinet members, observed the prayer rite inside the Royal Palace. According to the schedule, on the second day, the ashes will be marched along roads near the Royal Palace, and on the third day, they will be interred in a stupa in the Silver Pagoda in the compound of the Royal Palace.

About 20,000 people were expected to attend the 10-kilometre march of the late king's remains on Friday. The government allowed all civil servants and private company employees to take a day off on Friday in order to pay homage and to join the parade of moving the late King's remains. SHANGHAIDAILY.COM

Final wishes

King Father Norodom Sihanouk died at the age of 90 in Beijing on Oct. 15, 2012.

- The late king requested that all of his ashes be interred in the Silver Pagoda alongside the remains of his beloved daughter, Princess Kantha Bopha, who died of leukemia in 1952 at the age of four.

This ape flick is bananas

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Dawn of the Planet of the Apes opens this weekend. CONTRIBUTED

Dawn of the Planet of the Apes. Sci-fi simian movie swings between wild action and thought provoking drama

Richard: Mark, to riff off of the old Superman tag line, "You will believe an ape can speak." The special effects are amazing, but beyond the pixel manipulation that brings Caesar and company to vivid life, there are remarkable performances that, for lack of a better phrase, humanize the apes. These aren't the erudite apes of the Roddy McDowell era, with vocabularies that would impress even Conrad Black, but simian characters that behave somewhere midway between pure instinct and higher intelligence. I went bananas for the apes. You?

Mark: The apes may have limited vocabularies but they're a lot more interesting than the humans in the picture. This is a very sophisticated blockbuster that deals with our queasy relationship to the animal world and also acts as a metaphor for our need for civilized diplomacy. The post-apocalyptic world of a verdant but decaying San Francisco is visually plausible, and there are plot points worthy of a Greek tragedy. But enough about that. The apes are rad, man!

RC: It sure is a different kind of blockbuster. It has all the elements of the usual summer fare — it's a sequel, things blow up and, if that wasn't enough, also features an ape — but it takes risks. About half of it is done in ape sign language (with subtitles) and it's not chock-a-block with action. Instead it takes time building characters and motivations so when the wild ape-on-human action begins it feels earned and it feels epic.

MB: Ape-on-human? What about the fabulous ape-on-ape action? When these apes go at each other, it's feral and primitive. WWE, take note! And the ape sign language forces them to act with their eyes, which reminded me of the power of old silent films. I didn't need a bunch of clunky dialogue to know what these gorillas were thinking.

RC: I agree. I think this is the kind of performance that could convince the Academy to consider "motion capture" acting for inclusion in the Oscar acting categories.

Beyond the performances though, is a thought-provoking movie about race, gun usage and xenophobia. It's masked in allegory and, well, a story about talking apes, but it touches on those hot button topics in an interesting way.

MB: What is missing from the movie is James Franco, who brought some lightness and offhand charm to the last Apes movie. The apes are so strong in these films that the movie needs some star charisma to balance it out. Nevertheless, we've come a long way away from Bedtime for Bonzo.

Synopsis

Set 10 years after Rise of the Planet of the Apes saw Caesar (Andy Serkis) break free from a San Francisco primate sanctuary and start an ape uprising, the middle-aged chimpanzee is the leader of a large population of genetically evolved apes. Most of humankind was wiped out by a pandemic of ALZ-113—a "simian flu" virus that speeds up the rebuilding of brain cells in apes but is deadly to humans — but when a small band of humans scout a water source near the ape camp a monkey wrench is thrown into the fragile peace between homo sapiens and simians.

A film a dozen years in the making

Boyhood. Director Richard Linklater talks about pulling off a story with the same cast year after year

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Boyhood follows one boy (Ellar Coltrane) as he develops over 12 years. CONTRIBUTED

Director Richard Linklater's new film, Boyhood, is a unique, 12-years-in-the-making experiment, shot in short bursts over a long span of time to follow one young man (Ellar Coltrane) as he develops. We were curious how he managed to pull that off.

With a movie like this, filmed in such a unique way, how did you decide when to end the story?
I always had it planned out, to end it when he goes off to college. I remember with that moment, the feeling like there was freedom over that hill. You know, leaving home, being out of high school. It's just different, felt like you were an adult or something. I always had that being the little denouement, I guess. I knew that for years. I didn't know the exact dialogue, but I knew that was the note to hit.

It's impressive that you had so much of it planned out for so long.
Yeah, not the exact dialogue but every character trajectory. And then we had the luxury of being able to think about it for a year each year.

Were there any discoveries or surprises along the way that made it necessary to course-correct?
The thing was such a little incremental collaboration — a collaboration with incremental growth for the characters and the culture and everything, so there was never anything insurmountable or any huge curveballs that came our way. It was all kind of predictable. Like, "OK, everybody's a year older." I got to kind of work through all that. So it was kind of as planned.

He's not the most talkative protagonist.
I wanted it to mirror how life feels. When you're a little kid, your parents are doing all the talking. You go where they go, you're so beholden to them, but as you get older you gain more agency and suddenly it's your tastes that dictate. So that seemed to me developmentally somewhat accurate. And he's a pretty laid-back guy, actually.

When you cast Ellar as a kid, was there any concern about how he might grow up as far as his personality or his looks?
If he had become a significantly different guy? I knew that he would become himself and the film would go there, so if he had ended up a 200-pound football player, it would be a similar story about a guy who … becomes a 200-pound football player. It would touch on a lot of the same things, probably, but in a different vessel.

Given how much the independent world has changed since you started, how do you think you'd go about making a debut film in 2014?
Oh gosh. I don't know, I think it's easier to make a film now. There are a lot more films made. I think it's harder to get them seen, it's harder to have any cultural impact or be seen much, so that's the challenge. I think a lot of it is the indie audience has gotten older, and I think young people aren't necessarily picking up the indies. The ubiquity maybe of the technology makes actually consuming films in a strange way less of a big deal for them. They just download them and whatever. It's a struggle to get them out there.

The guy who lived life out loud

Life Itself. Even in the face of death, Roger Ebert let filmmaker Steve James in to share his story

scene@metronews.ca

Roger Ebert and his wife Chaz, who says the late film critic "just lived his life out loud." CONTRIBUTED

In the documentary Life Itself, an emotional Martin Scorsese explains how the late film critic Roger Ebert arranged a tribute for him at the 1982 Toronto International Film Festival that helped resurrect the director's career after a rough spell. The Chicago Sun-Times critic was close friends with Scorsese, as he had been with a host of directors whose films he reviewed over his iconic 46-year career. Steve James, the filmmaker behind the 1994 Oscar-nominated documentary Hoop Dreams, was not one of them.

But that didn't prevent the documentarian — whose films were invariably praised by Ebert — from adapting the critic's 2011 memoir Life Itself into the titular documentary, which has been met with critical acclaim since premiering at the Sundance Film Festival in January. "I don't think he wanted that kind of relationship with me and I didn't know it was possible," James tells Metro. "But for what it's worth, I do think it served the movie because I came into his life very much an outsider and I had no real baggage or friendship."

The documentary is a poignant portrait of the outspoken critic, who passed away in April 2013 after a decade-long battle with thyroid cancer. Life Itself carefully reflects the scope of Ebert's interests and his mercurial nature. "He made it clear from the get-go that he expected I'd do an honest and multi-faceted portrait of him," says James. "I think that was something he had prized in my other films — that they present people in a three-dimensional light — so he expected that to be the case here because that's the kind of film he'd want to see whether it was on him or not."

James' previous films such as The Interrupters, on a group of violence counselors in troubled Chicago neighbourhoods, and Hoop Dreams, about two young basketball players, had followed a colourful cast of characters. He says switching gears to focus on one, high-profile individual was a welcome change.

"The idea of doing a biography on someone who has this fascinating life was kind of exciting for me because I haven't done any films like that," he said. "And to do it on someone who was famous and beloved — these were all new territories for me. Having done as many films as I have over the years, you relish opportunities to tell different kinds of stories in different ways."

The director would only have four months of filming with Ebert before he passed away. Moreover, the critic was hospitalized for almost the entire period. Ebert's cancer left the lower portion of his face disfigured, he also suffered from a serious hip fracture. "Roger was struggling with recovery, and then setbacks, but to let me film a rehab sequence where he's really struggling, that was pretty brave of him," the director says.

GoT takes Emmy Awards bid throne

Game of statuettes. Fantasy series scores 19 nominations, leading Fargo and American Horror Story: Coven

Maisie Williams and Rory McCann in the Season 4 finale of Game of Thrones. HBO

The sprawling and bloodthirsty saga Game of Thrones, defying the Emmy Awards' begrudging respect for such fantasy fare, emerged as the leader in the nominations announced Thursday with 19 bids, including best drama series.

Other top nominees included a pair of ambitious miniseries, Fargo, with 18 bids, and American Horror Story: Coven, with 17. The AIDS drama The Normal Heart received 16 nominations, including best TV movie. The meth kingpin tale Breaking Bad got 16 bids for its final season, including best drama and a best actor nod for star Bryan Cranston.

The 66th Primetime Emmy Awards ceremony will have big-screen star power to spare. This year's Academy Awards best-actor winner Matthew McConaughey (Dallas Buyers Club) and nominee Chiwetel Ejiofor (12 Years a Slave) are both nominees for TV projects, as is past Oscar winner Julia Roberts.

In the competitive best-drama series category, Game of Thrones will compete with Breaking Bad, Downton Abbey, House of Cards, Mad Men and True Detective.

Whether HBO's Game of Thrones can take home the top trophy is another question: Only one fantasy or sci-fi series, Lost, has ever captured it, according to Tom O'Neil, author of The Emmys and organizer of the Gold Derby awards site.

Netflix's House of Cards, which made a breakthrough last year as the first online series nominated for a major award, has the chance again to grab Emmy gold.

Orange is the New Black, also from Netflix, leaped that barrier on the flip side this time around with a bid for best comedy series, along with a nod for star Taylor Schilling.

Also competing for best comedy honours are The Big Bang Theory, Louie, Silicon Valley, Veep, and Modern Family, a four-time winner that has the chance to tie Frasier as the all-time winning sitcom with one more award.

Orange is the New Black, a prison-set hybrid "dramedy," could have been entered in either the drama or comedy category, and the decision to go for the latter paid off.

Another category-buster is True Detective, the dark-hearted Southern drama that starred McConaughey and Woody Harrelson. It was entered in the series category although it had a close-ended story and its stars have indicated they don't plan on returning for the show's second season.

But the crime anthology qualifies as a series because of the "created by" credit given to Nic Pizzolatto by the Writers Guild of America, said John Leverence, the TV academy's senior vice-president for awards. That credit serves as a "marker" to help determine a program's first-year Emmy categorization, which can be ambiguous, Leverence said.

McConaughey and Harrelson both will vie for best drama actor honours, along with four-time winner Cranston for Breaking Bad, Jon Hamm for Mad Men, Kevin Spacey for House of Cards, and Jeff Daniels for The Newsroom, who won the Emmy last year.

Nominees in the lead actress drama category are last year's winner, Homeland star Claire Danes along with Lizzy Caplan for Masters of Sex, Michelle Dockery for Downton Abbey, Julianna Margulies for The Good Wife, Kerry Washington for Scandal and Robin Wright for House of Cards.

For comedy series, the lead actor nods went to Don Cheadle for House of Lies, Louis C.K. for Louie, Ricky Gervais for Derek, Matt LeBlanc for Episodes, William H. Macy for Shameless and Jim Parsons for The Big Bang Theory. Parsons won the Emmy last year.

Best actress comedy nominees besides Schilling were Lena Dunham for Girls, Edie Falco for Nurse Jackie, Melissa McCarthy for Mike & Molly, Amy Poehler for Parks and Recreation and last year's winner, Julia Louis-Dreyfus, for Veep.

"This list of nominees would also be the list for the best dinner party in history," Girls creator and star Dunham said in a statement, dubbing them "fierce and funny women."

The 66th Primetime Emmy Awards will air Monday, Aug. 25, on CTV, with emcee Seth Meyers. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Martin Freeman in the Calgary-shot series Fargo. FX CANADA

The Calgary-shot drama Fargo landed a whopping 18 Emmy nominations on Thursday, and Canadians are sharing in the glory:

- Matt Lloyd of Calgary scored a nomination for outstanding cinematography on the FX Canada drama, while Jackie Lind — another Canuck — is up for outstanding casting for a miniseries.
- Based on the 1996 film by Joel and Ethan Coen, Fargo is also up for best miniseries, and received acting nods for Billy Bob Thornton, Martin Freeman and Allison Tolman.
- Other Canadian Emmy nominees include Degrassi for outstanding children's program and Toronto-raised Maurice LaMarche for outstanding character voice-over performance for Futurama (he's twice won the category).
- Barry Julien of Montreal, meanwhile, is among almost 20 people nominated on The Colbert Report for outstanding writing for a variety series.
- One notable Canadian omission Thursday was Orphan Black star Tatiana Maslany, who was snubbed in the lead dramatic actress category.

Woody Harrelson and Matthew McConaughey in Season 1 of True Detective. HBO

William Friedkin. Oscar-winning director could join True Detective for next season

Oscar-winning director William Friedkin has revealed to Indiewire that the series' producers may be considering him for Season 2.

The names of Matthew McConaughey's and Woody Harrelson's replacements are still the subject of intense speculation, but HBO may have already found a director to replace Cary Fukunaga, who is currently shooting Beasts of No Nation starring Idris Elba.

William Friedkin, to whom we owe cult film The Exorcist and who won the Oscar for Best Director for The French Connection in 1972, has met several times with series creator Nic Pizzolatto, although no decision is known.

It would not be the first TV experience for the director, who has already helmed several episodes of Tales From the Crypt and CSI and whose films To Live and Die in LA and Killer Joe are set to be adapted for television.

As for the cast, many names are circulating, with Nic Pizzolatto having recently said that Christian Bale, Joaquin Phoenix and Josh Brolin would make the ideal cast. AFP

You'll get your dragons when Martin is damn well ready!

Metro in Hollywood

Bad news for Game of Thrones fans who are getting impatient waiting for author George R.R. Martin to finish the hit book series. He really doesn't want to hear your questions about when the next book will be out, so stop asking about it, you punk kids. Actually, Martin didn't put it that nicely: "I find that question pretty offensive, frankly, when people start speculating about my death and my health," he tells Swiss newspaper Tages-Anzeiger. "So f— you to those people." But since you asked, Martin admits that, at 65 years old, he's in no hurry to crank out more material. You'll get your dire wolves and dragons when he's damn well ready. "I have been slowing down. I don't know if it's the fact that I'm getting older — I think it's partly that," he says. "But I also think it's partly that the series is so much more successful that there's demands that come with success." I feel like we're going in circles here, George. So … when's the next book coming out? You're not getting any younger, you know.

Downey Jr. Jr.? RDJ and wife expecting baby girl

Here's a bit of good kid-related news for Robert Downey Jr. after his 20-year-old son, Indio, was arrested for cocaine possession last month.

The Iron Man star announced via social media that he and wife Susan Downey are expecting another baby.

He kept it pretty simple on Twitter with: "Yo. Susan. Me. Baby. Girl. November. Scorpio?"

But on Facebook he got a little more effusive, writing, "Um. I don't know if it's a 'man's world,' but I'm certain women run it.

Susan and I are therefore delighted to announce we are expecting a baby. Girl. November."

The couple also has a two-year-old son, Exton.

BUS ROUTE AND SERVICE REVIEW

THE STUDY
London Transit retained Dillon Consulting Limited to complete a Bus Route and Service Review to identify opportunities for improvements. The study will:

- Identify what we are doing well and address the quality and performance of existing bus routes and services
- Understand travel patterns of Londoners and what motivates their travel choices
- Recommend options that will attract more customers to transit
- Identify a service plan that improves the customer experience, including consistent arrival times, overcrowding on buses, travel times and connections
- Develop service and performance guidelines for making decisions regarding changes to services

THE PROCESS
The study will take approximately eight months to complete. The recommendations will be presented to the Commission in early 2015.

WE NEED YOUR INPUT
The success of the study will be based in part on the input we receive from current transit riders, community groups/organizations, and the citizens of London. We want to hear from you. There are several methods to get involved. Go to www.ltconline.ca for details.

The study team will be hosting an initial drop in centre to seek feedback from you on key issues and concerns the study should address.

Lobster rolls with a tarragon mayo twist

RICARDO COOKS
Chef Ricardo
Ricardo Magazine

When I'm making lobster, I always make more than enough to go around. Let's be honest: what's better than leftover lobster for lunch? And although any seafood dish makes me happy, I have a soft spot for lobster rolls (with a bag of chips on the side). They remind me of my first vacation on the East Coast with my wife.

Remoulade

1. In a bowl, combine all the ingredients.
2. Season with salt and pepper.
3. Refrigerate for at least 30 minutes.

Lobster Rolls

1. Fill the hot dog buns with remoulade and lobster pieces.

Ingredients

Remoulade

- 3 cups (750 ml) celery root, peeled and cut into thin julienne
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) mayonnaise
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) lemon juice
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) chopped fresh tarragon
- 1 tsp (5 ml) capers, drained and finely chopped
- 1 tsp (5 ml) Dijon mustard
- 1/2 clove garlic, finely chopped
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) Tabasco sauce, or to taste
- Salt and pepper

Lobster Rolls

- 4 hot dog buns, toasted
- Meat of 2 cooked lobsters, cooled and cut into chunks

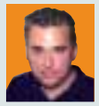
Note

- For a more classic remoulade, substitute the tarragon with flat-leaf parsley.
- To serve as a salad, divide the remoulade on your choice of lettuce and garnish with pieces of lobster.

This recipe makes four servings. RICARDO

Summer cocktails

Ungava gin a sunny tonic



LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell

Though vodka may be king of the white spirits, modern mixologists have grown bored with its taste profile or, actually, its lack of one. Just look to the shelves. They're populated with vodkas flavoured with everything from root beer to birthday cake.

That's paved the way for the return of gin. Considered very old school (it was invented back in the mid-17th century), gin's combination of juniper berries and botanicals gives it personality plus, which makes it perfect over ice or as the base of classic drinks like gin and tonic and the martini.

Artisan gin makers the world over are turning heads and tantalizing taste buds. Named for the Ungava Peninsula in northern Quebec, Ungava Canadian Premium Gin ($34.90 – $37.99) is a robust botanical stew that includes the likes of Nordic juniper, cloudberry and Labrador tea.

It's an aromatic powerhouse with a unique yellow hue that will add a little Quebecois sunshine to your summertime cocktails.

Hunger games: Raps want only winners

NBA free agency. Re-signing of Lowry solidifies hard-nosed nucleus of GM Ujiri's Toronto upstarts

Raptors general manager Masai Ujiri, left, and newly re-signed point guard Kyle Lowry speak to reporters on Thursday in Toronto. COLIN MCCONNELL/TORSTAR NEWSSERVICE

There is a trait Masai Ujiri seeks out more than any other in the players he covets for the Raptors, something far more important to him than dribbling or shooting, passing or defence.

He will open the vault to find those who possess it, he will take risks because he sees it dormant in some players, ready to be developed over time.

It is impossible to define but it's led him to make subtle changes and key additions to a 2014-15 roster now almost fully formed.

"I don't like guys who cut corners or try to go the easy route," the president and general manager said Thursday while officially announcing the return of point guard Kyle Lowry and a couple of other additions to the team.

"These guys work hard ... and you know what?"

"I don't pay players, I don't pay stats, I try to pay winners. And that's what you want to do. It's not like they've done it for many years but it's a great start for us."

Ujiri's work is all but done with Thursday's official announcements that Lowry is back on a four-year, $48-million deal, joined by backup point guard Greivis Vasquez and one-time Raptor James Johnson at small forward.

There may be room for one more transaction but the majority of the work is done.

The tweaking of the roster hasn't meant huge substantial changes but the subtle ones may be good enough.

Lowry said he had an offer from the Houston Rockets, accompanied by phone calls from Dwight Howard and Chandler Parsons, and he had contact with the Miami Heat during the free-agent negotiation process.

But the chance to improve with a young roster, and to lead it, was more than he could turn down. It speaks to where the Raptors are as a franchise — growing, not there yet but promising — that the chance to lead a group was more enticing to Lowry than the chance to join a legitimate contender.

"I knew the money was going to come, the years were going to come," he said of the deal that makes him the highest-paid player on the roster. "I wanted to be in a place I could win and grow.

"This organization, from top to bottom, is an unbelievable first-class organization and I want to be a part of it and do something special."
